

Viviana Zamora

Lab 04

Neural crew

Exploratory Data Analysis

Contribution Journal

For this assignment, I completed my assigned portion of the lab and contributed my individual work to the Neural Crew team project. My contributions included completing and reviewing my work in Jupyter Notebook, verifying that my portion was working correctly, and preparing my files for inclusion in the team's final submission.

I also assisted with organizing the team's GitHub repository and coordinating the collection of team members' work. I helped establish a pull request workflow so individual contributions could be added to the repository while maintaining an organized record of the team's submissions.

In addition to my technical contribution, I communicated with team members regarding the files needed for the final project and worked to ensure that the required materials were available for compilation.

My primary contributions included:

- Completing my assigned lab work.
- Reviewing and verifying my Jupyter Notebook work.
- Preparing and submitting my individual project files.
- Assisting with the organization of the team's GitHub repository.
- Coordinating the collection of team member contributions.
- Helping maintain an organized workflow for the team's final submission.